Like the city that hosts it, Art Basel has become a sprawling megalopolis, filled above capacity and exceeding anything its founders envisioned. The art! The parties! The traffic! It's the destination of the international set and bane of locals, who wait out the week to take back their streets. For the serious art collectors who descend, it's sneakers by day and private dinners by night.

For an inside local scene, we always turn to Media Maven Tara Solomon. Her parties included one hosted by Eva Longoria for Ricardo Barroso Interiors at Casa Tua, and at Coya for coffee table tomes Cuba Then and Paul Solberg's Ten Years in Pictures. Tara also sent us to a new art and design neighborhood for the opening of the Bertil Bernhardt Design & Art Gallery, hosted by Bertil Espegren & Alberto Guerrero and a retrospective of meditative paintings by spiritual artist Zachary Selig.

Well, this was one EVENTFUL TRIP! We are blessed as a new publication to have been invited to so many events and meeting so many inspiring people. But, as we always go for quality over quantity, here is our exclusive round-up of the most notable parties and venues of the 2015 Art Basel week.

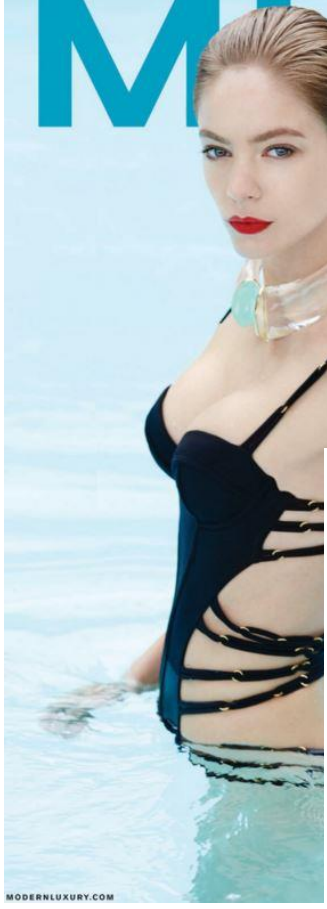

On the night of December 3rd, the intimate launch of Ricardo Barroso Interiors — the highly-anticipated first monograph on the internationally-awarded interior designer, was hosted by the designer himself and close friend Eva Longoria at Casa Tua. Bouchées and cocktails were passed around as the VVIP crowd was lounging, book in hand, discovering Barroso's lifetime work. I got to chat briefly with Barroso, who was humble about his accomplishments yet proud of his first book's outlook. Coffee table worthy!

Memoria y cuentos de Art Basel Miami Beach 2015 (parte 3)

15 diciembre, 2015

Por: Leonardo Dávalos & Pedro Maal / fotografías: Anna Guggenbuehl Twitter Email

Conoce de primera mano todos los cuentos, anécdotas, mentiras y verdades de lo que sucedió en la mejor semana que vive cada año la ciudad de Miami Beach. La semana mas fabulosa de todo el high season de la nueva meca del arte-party, Miami la Magic City de los Estados Unidos de Norteamérica. La experiencia de Art Basel Miami Beach hay que vivirla, es una semana en la cual se despliega lo mejor del arte moderno, el marketing mas sofisticado made in America, y la combinación explosiva y peligrosa de ambos.

Para leer la parte II haz click aquí

DÍA 4:

Agotados, apenas en la cuarta jornada, desayunamos tipo detox al mediodía, aunque a juzgar por el cielo era ya de noche. El cielo y el tráfico pronosticaban una tarde y noche agitada y confusa. Eso pensamos mientras entramos a la feria por segundo día consecutivo. Esa tarde ya el acceso no era únicamente para los VIP, así que centenares de centenares de visitantes se concentraban en cada puerta del centro de convenciones de Miami Beach. Llovía tímida pero persistentemente. Así que decidimos disfrutar de la feria en lugar de inventar recorridos extraños fuera de nuestra área de confort: la playa. Paseamos, saludamos y nuevamente al UBS lounge, fuimos por un poco más.

Con Eva Longoria y Ricardo Barroso en Casa Tua

No recuerdo muy bien cómo se hizo tan pronto de noche, eran las seis cuando decidimos pasar a saludar a Ricardo Barroso quien presentaba su libro de diseño de interiores en Casa Tua. Saludamos a Eva Longoria y a su novio José Antonio Baston, presidente de Televisa. Hicimos los selfies y fotos de rigor para marcharnos y llegar a tiempo a la cena de Swarovsky en Soho Beach House. Pero en ese preciso momento se desató la madre de todas las tormentas hasta el punto que el agua entraba al patio de Casa Tua. Imposibilitados de salir a ninguna parte, a menos que nos rescatara un Uber boat, decidimos tomarnos todo a la ligera y reírnos con las proezas que tuvo que hacer Eva Longoria para abandonar el sitio luego de esperar 45 minutos en medio de la tormenta y el agua, pues ella era la anfitriona de un evento junto a Ricky Martin en el PAMM, a beneficio de la fundación Global Gift. “No me saco los tacones ni muerta”, fue lo último que escuchamos mientras subíamos nuevamente al piso superior de Casa Tua.
